Home Theater Experience

A well designed home theater should be both beautiful and therapeutic. We take great pride in our ability to blend technology and smart design into any space, whether it's adding surround sound to your living room or creating an elaborate home theater.

Component Selection

SED works with a full range of products to ensure that we will provide the right solution for any size project. Our understanding of new technology and products guaranties that your expectations are met at a price you can afford. A system can start with only a few thousand dollars or go as high as your taste requires.

Room Design

The signal picked up by your ears in any environment is comprised of only 50% direct sound from the speakers, while the other 50% is sound generated by the room itself! SED understands both the art and the science involved in creating superior home theaters. SED offers acoustic engineering and design services, turning any room into an exceptional experience.

Automation and Controls

SED has a full line of control products that will allow you to manage your home theater with the push of a button. That same button can also open the garage door, start the coffee maker, and turn off your child's game system.

"SED created a theater that fit our house and our lifestyle perfectly. We now wait for movies to be released on DVD because they look and sound better in our house than at the theater."
